Hi Marshall,

I apologize, I think you may have misunderstood our conversation. I am fine with our SoCalGas consultant having conversations with Yhanda but our goal in enlisting an independent analysis is to make a determination specific to SoCalGas' customers not to form a shared Statewide opinion. Considering our gas only status it is important for our position to be informed based on SoCalGas only data.

Let's chat next week to see if/how there could be some support and/or information sharing between the two consultants. I also have to see if our consultants even want to discuss externally or if they prefer to do their own analysis from start to finish.

Thanks for reaching out and it was good seeing you in DC.

P.S. are you attending the second meeting in DC on the 15th of April?

Sue

I look forward to a meeting of our three consultants (TRC, ESI, and Negawatt) to divide up the work needed to fully analyze the DOE proposed furnace standards.

Bijit can set up a Doodle Poll to get a time for the meeting. The Poll would include the SW IOU C&S team even though most of us would be observing the discussion.

As you mentioned this meeting will need to be after you receive Negawatt's phase one report. I will ask Yanda to complete an initial CA focused assessment of the DOE proposal for the meeting. Given that DOE as schedule Day 2 of the public meeting because the meeting yesterday did not get through the materials, this meeting of our consultants may occur after the 13th.

Please let Bijit know if you agree he should set up the meeting and what week would be good.
